DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 20 recites the limitation "packaged droppers" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 2, 4, 6-12, 14-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Clifford et al. USPN 6814265.

As to claims 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, and 10, Clifford discloses a medicine dropper 10 comprising a first portion 24 being resiliently compressible at a first end and being essentially rigid and hollow between the first end and a second end; a second portion 28 monolithically constructed and in fluid communication with the first portion, and being essentially rigid and hollow between a third end and a fourth end. The examiner interprets the limitation 'monolithically constructed' with the plain meaning of monolithic – acting as a single, often rigid, uniform whole. The dropper comprises a third portion 26 monolithically connected and in fluid communication with the second portion 28, the third portion being essentially rigid and hollow between a fifth end and a sixth end and tapering to a sixth end having an opening (near closures 16 and 18). All portions have elliptical cross sections, which are dimensioned differently descending in size from the first portion to the sixth portion (Figures 2 and 3).

As to claims 8, 9, and 16, see col. 2, line 64 through col. 3, line 1.

In reference to claims 11 and 12, the claims are directed to a process of making the article. "Even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process." In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985) (citations omitted). MPEP 2113.

As to claims 14 and 15, the first end includes at least one raised ridge and has at least one indentation, see lines on sides of front portion 24 Figure 1.

As to claims 16-19, regarding the limitations of inserting a dropper into a sealable bag, these limitations are directed to an intended use of the article. Intended use must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963). If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim limitations. The invention of Clifford meets the structural limitations of independent claim 1 in that the dropper is capable of being inserted into a sealable bag.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

7. Claims 3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Clifford et al. USPN 6814265. Clifford discloses the claimed invention except for Clifford does not disclose a cylindrical or rectangular cross section. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to substitute a cylindrical or rectangular cross section with an elliptical cross section as taught in Clifford, since applicant has not disclosed that a cylindrical or rectangular cross section solves any stated purpose or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the invention would perform equally well with the elliptical cross section.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claim 13 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
